To Whom it May Concern,

Our hope is that this letter finds you in strong spirits, especially, as you review the merit of Timothe's candidacy within your organization. The following correspondence is written on his behalf to help you gain a fuller understanding of both who he is and how his abilities could be an asset to your company.

To begin with, Timothe dedicated his most recent summer months to helping a 110+ year old family-owned and operated business sustain its mission. Widely regarded as one of the best traditional, residential programs in the United States, Camp Lincoln for Boys has built a reputation upon the immutable principle of encouraging men to pursue excellence. Our daily program is designed to be rigorous with this in mind. Often, Timothe would work consecutive twelve-plus hour days for extended periods of time to help achieve the stated mission. His commitment and resolve to the execution of the overall project was and is commendable at the highest level.

The traits which most readily characterize Timothe's employment with our team are as follows: he is an incredibly effective communicator, he has a natural aptitude towards managing a multitude of challenging projects simultaneously, he is both an effective leader and team member, his critical thinking skills are sharp, he consistently produces results at a high level, and he is overall a well-dispositioned person that others find agreeable to work with.

In his summer with us at Lincoln, Timothe displayed strong leadership capabilities. Arriving at camp as a generalist, Timothe quickly took the reins of his specific assignment and worked his way into a Director level role. The infrequency of this happening is notable. Timothe earned this role by showcasing a commitment to exceeding the high standard of work required, through his even-keeled temperament, and in his effectivity with leading and managing his colleagues.

Our team is proud to be writing on behalf of Timothe as he does maintain many skillsets and principles which would allow him to be a value to any company. If you have any questions or would like to connect further, please reach out to me at the contact provided below.

Thank you,

Robert Littman
